Advance Guard of Circus Now on the Ground

Although the "white tops" of Ringling Brothers' circus will not be erected in Guthrie until early Friday morning, the big advance guard of agents and contractors has already invaded the city to prepare for the coming of the show. A number of circus men arrived in the city today and more are expected tomorrow, each having a different mission to perform in connection with the big amusement enterprise. The "twenty-four hour man," who makes all the physical arrangements, such as laying out the show grounds and choosing the route for the street parade, is expected in the city early this morning.

Including the agents who arrived today and those who are coming, exactly 192 men have preceded the circus youngsters among its inhabitants.

into Guthrie during the past three weeks. This includes the crews of three advertising cars, which travel one week apart and blaze the trail for the big show with gaily colored lithographs and posters.

The Ringling Brothers' circus this year is a veritable city in itself, its population numbering a few more than 1,350 people, including performers, working men and executive staff. The show is traveling on four special trains made up of 39 cars, the heaviest railroad equipment ever used by a tented amusement enterprise. The show carries 739 horses, 108 acres of wild animals and 41 ponderous elephants.

A feature of the Ringling menagerie this season is the large number of circus youngsters among its inhabitants.

James F. J. Archibald. This photograph shows James F. J. Archibald, the Dutch liner, which brought him back on orders of United States Minister Van Dyck from his journey toward Vienna with messages from Konstantin T. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador. Archibald had the message to Premier Burian in which the proposal was made to tie up American ammunition plants. It was taken up in Great Britain and resulted in the request of President Wilson to the Austrian government to recall Dumba.

1,250 characters and it is presented on a stage which occupies nearly one entire side of the enormous "big top." In a series of striking pantomime pictures this wordless play tells the dramatic story of the wisest of Israel's Kings in a period a thousand years before Christ. The costumes and scenery are the most gorgeous ever used in a spectacle, either under canvas or in a theater, and the cost of staging this production was approximately $1,000,000. A feature of the spectacle is a ballet of 300 girls under the personal direction of Ottokar Bartik, balletmaster of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York City, and late of La Scala, Milan.

It is promised that the regular circus program will contain more ardent novelties in the riding, acrobatic, and aerial line than has ever before been seen in this city. This season the Ringling Brothers have endeavored to secure as many new foreign acts as possible, and their European agents have sent over a host of thrilling and sensational features from the continental music halls and circuses.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one bread and butter cure for the most distressing disease of the system, and that it is a cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and restoring the system in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer Two Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
